

The infographic illustrates the journey of a person with a mental health condition through five stages, represented by silhouettes of people and a central heart with a heartbeat line. The stages are:

- Living with a condition: Represented by a teal silhouette of a person's head with a white brain icon and a dotted line indicating thought. Below the silhouette is a group of diverse people, including a graduate, a person in a wheelchair, and others.
- Seeking care: Represented by a red speech bubble with a white icon of a person and a heart. Below the silhouette is a group of diverse people, including a person in a wheelchair and others.
- Recovering: Represented by a yellow speech bubble with a white icon of a plant growing from a heart. Below the silhouette is a group of diverse people, including a person in a wheelchair and others.
- Supporting someone: Represented by a red speech bubble with a white icon of a person and a heart. Below the silhouette is a group of diverse people, including a person in a wheelchair and others.
- Facing barriers: Represented by a teal speech bubble with a white icon of a person and a heart. Below the silhouette is a group of diverse people, including a person in a wheelchair and others.

The central heart with a heartbeat line is surrounded by a circular path with butterflies and stars, symbolizing the ongoing journey and hope.

Dignity & support

Listen without judgement.
Include people in decisions that affect them.
